The development of the Los Angeles River Revitalization Master Plan is a historic moment in the City of Los Angeles galvanized by a strong partnership of government, environmental and community groups, and residents. These people came together with the vision to renew our historic River using this Plan to guide us for the next two decades. The Master Plan was spearheaded by the Ad Hoc Committee on the Los Angeles River led by Chair Councilmember Ed P. Reyes, Vice Chair Councilmember Eric Garcetti, and Councilmembers José Huizar, Tom LaBonge and Jan Perry, and former Committee member, Councilmember Wendy Greuel. The Ad Hoc River Committee, approved by Councilmember Alex Padilla, focused on major opportunities, including environmental restoration, parks and trails, neighborhood revitalization, economic development and civic pride.

The Plan idea was received with strong enthusiasm by Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa, who prioritized the River when he became mayor in 2005. Mayor Villaraigosa, with the assistance of Deputy Mayor Nancy Sutley, has directed City departments to oversee the main components of the project and has helped forge partnerships with leaders at the local, national and international levels to further the Plan’s objectives. Krista Kline, in the Mayor’s office, has provided critical, ongoing support to the Plan’s development.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is an invaluable partner in evaluating River projects to improve environmental and water quality, and flood protection. Congressmember Lucille Roybal-Allard and Senator Barbara Boxer have fought for legislation and funding to achieve the Plan’s goals.

The Plan would not have been possible without the commitment of key City staff, in particular Los Angeles River Revitalization, led by Chair Councilmember Ed P. Reyes, Vice Chair Councilmember Eric Garcetti, and Councilmembers José Huizar, Tom LaBonge and Jan Perry, and former Committee member, Councilmember Wendy Greuel. The Ad Hoc River Committee, approved by Councilmember Alex Padilla, focused on major opportunities, including environmental restoration, parks and trails, neighborhood revitalization, economic development and civic pride.

The Plan would not have been possible without the commitment of the Department of Water and Power, in particular General Manager Ron Deaton, who secured its funding, as well as Lillian Kawasaki, John Chen, and Imudiaso Aminwu who monitored its development. City Engineer Gary Lee Moore, PE, and Deputy City Engineer Deborah Weintrabu, A.I.A., from the Bureau of Engineering, have worked tirelessly to direct the City through this master planning process from the very beginning. Board of Public Works Commission President Cynthia Ruiz, along with the Board’s River liaison Commissioner Yolanda Fuentes, have provided instrumental guidance and support. The Department of City Planning, led by S. Gail Goldberg, provided ongoing staff support and advisement through its newly-established River Unit.

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors’ Gloria Molina, First District, and Zev Yaroslavsky, Third District, have executed the River revitalization goals outlined in the County’s Master Plan that was adopted in 1996. The County Department of Public Works and its Watershed Management Division have collaborated on the Plan throughout its development.

The passion of many environmental and community groups has been a driving force in the River restoration. These groups include: Alianza de los Pueblos del Río, Anahuak Youth Soccer Association, Audubon Center at Debs Park, Friends of Atwater Village, Friends of the Los Angeles River, Heal the Bay, Livable Places, Los Angeles Audubon Society, Los Angeles and San Gabriel Rivers Watershed Council, Natural Resources Defense Council, North East Trees, The River Project, Santa Monica Mountains Conservancy, TreePeople, The Trust for Public Land, and Parks for People.

Tetra Tech, Inc., the environmental and engineering firm, served as the City’s lead consultant in developing the Plan. The Plan’s consultant team, led by Ira Mark Artz, PE, has been extremely dedicated and has provided indispensable expertise in developing the Plan. The team included international experts from eleven subconsultant firms: Civitas, Inc., Wenk Associates, Mia Lehrer + Associates, The Robert Group, GCG Rose & Kindel, Transportation & Land Use Collaborative of Southern California (TLUC), Urban Partners, Asset Strategies, HNTB Architecture, Inc., Urban Semillas, and David Marquez.

The Plan would not have been possible without the assistance of key City staff, in particular Lupe Vela, Ad Hoc River Committee senior staff, who is on loan from the Bureau of Sanitation directed by Rita Robinson, and Jill Sourial, the First Council District’s Deputy on the River and Environment, who provided expertise and oversight. Tom Rothmann and Claire Bowin, from the Department of City Planning, helped lay the groundwork for the RIO concept. Ara Kasparian, Ph.D. and Renee Ellis at the Bureau of Engineering provided unwavering support throughout the effort, and Carol Armstrong, Ph.D., Project Manager, provided exceptional commitment, guidance, and leadership.
